The Inclusive Teacher summer school: e-learning together

6 – 10 July 2026 | Groningen, Netherlands

For teachers and educational developers

Inclusive teaching is often about making small, meaningful adjustments that are both attainable and sustainable. To support this, the University of Groningen has developed The Inclusive Teacher, an award-winning e-learning course for teachers.

This week-long summer school offers the opportunity to complete The Inclusive Teacher course in collaboration with others. Periods of self-study are alternated with activities to engage with the materials in-depth. Participants can exchange insights and experiences across institutional or faculty contexts, and learn from each other's practices. Diverse experiential and social activities help to refresh perspectives and deepen reflection.

Course topics comprise inclusive course design, pedagogy, assessment, and group work. Promoting awareness, the course also focuses on practical strategies to make student diversity a positive resource for teaching and learning.

Upon completion of the course, participants can receive a Certificate of Participation, recognising their commitment to inclusive teaching. A final reflective assignment can be completed afterwards to gain a Proof of Competence (digital credential).
